Dues Are Now Due

It is that time of year again and our annual Club dues are now due. Dues are still a bargain at $35 for the year. We hope to be able to soon have meetings in person or virtually by Zoom. The dues help pay for the Club insurance and also for a new Zoom account so that we may have unlimited time for our meetings with up to 100 participants. Please send your payment to

Our neighbors to the North, The Chinook Woodturning Guild, kindly invited the Great Falls Woodturning Club to be their guests on a Zoom Demonstration featuring Craig Timmerman from Austin, Texas. Craig is a production turner/artist who has been turning for greater than 20 years. He has done numerous live and Zoom demo's on various topics. His website is armadillowoodworks.com for those of you who want to check out his work. This Zoom meeting had 84 people from multiple guilds in Canada and their invited guests in Montana in attendance to watch from the comfort of their own homes. A number of the GFWT members were in attendance. A social time was available for a half hour before the presentation to all for "bs time" and getting people on-line. The presentation went off without any real difficulty. He had multiple cameras so the viewing was great. He is great presenter, who is very clear and precise. His topic for the evening was a flying bowl or a winged bowl turned out of a rectangle(see photos from his website). He encouraged folks to start with a square blank for their first experience with turning such a bowl. Additionally, he covered the use of inlay such as turquoise in his mesquite bowls. He uses both epoxy or CA glue to inlay his work and discussed the pros and cons of using such adhesives for inlaying including U-V stability of such adhesives. His presentation was about 2 hours and 15 minutes by the time he answered questions from the audience. A very nice evening with lots of gained information. We surely appreciate the invite to join from the Chinook Woodturning Guild.
